The Board of Trustees of Loyola of Montreal at their annual meeting on December 1st seated five new representatives on their thirty-member body. Of the five, two are students at Loyola and one is an Alumni Association representative.

Of particular significance is the appointment of Mr. Paul Gallagher, a graduate of the class of '50, representing the Alumni Association. Mr. Gallagher is currently Director-General of Dawson College and in addition to being an Alumnus taught in Loyola High School for a number of years.

Mary Roche and Mike Kerby, both Arts III students at Loyola, are the first members to represent the student body on the Board of Trustees. Miss Roche is an Honours Sociology student and has been active in college areas dealing with both student life and sports. Mike Kerby is currently Internal Vice-President of the Loyola of Montreal Students' Association and is active on many committees at Loyola. With this move, Loyola becomes one of the few university-level institutions in the country to place this type of responsibility on representatives of the student body.

Reverends Norman Dodge, S.J., a social worker with the Catholic Federated Charities, and Sean McEvenue, S.J., Dean of Theology, Regis College in Toronto, complete the roster of new members. The five were introduced
